

Marysville welcomes new department leadership

Lawless joins Marysville Police as Assistant Chief

Marysville welcomes Assistant Chief Jim Lawless, who was sworn in by Mayor Jon Nehring on March 29. Assistant Chief Lawless comes to Marysville from the Edmonds Police Department, where he was Acting Chief since January 2020 and worked for more than 25 years.

"I am looking forward to the quality of leadership and depth of experience that Jim brings to Marysville," Chief Erik Scairpon said. "The men and women of this agency and the residents of our city will benefit from Jim's executive experience as our community continues to grow in density and complexity."

Lawless holds a master's degree in Public Administration from the University of Illinois and is a graduate of the prestigious FBI National Academy. He takes the reins from Assistant Chief Jeff Goldman, who has served admirably with Marysville Police for 32 years and announced his decision to retire in late 2020.

Marysville hires new Community Development Director

A new Community Development Director has joined the City of Marysville. Haylie Miller's first day on the job was March 29.

Miller comes to Marysville from the City of Ferndale, where she was Community Development Director since 2019. She held increasingly responsible positions there since she started with the city in 2013. Before coming to Ferndale, she worked for land use consulting and engineering firms.

"Marysville is a fast-growing city with many exciting opportunities as well as some challenges related to economic development, housing and land use," Mayor Jon Nehring said. "I'm delighted to welcome Haylie to this important position on our city leadership team."

Miller earned a bachelor's degree in Environmental Planning and Policy from Western Washington University and is a graduate of Marysville Pilchuck High School. Born and raised on the Tulalip Reservation, Miller said she is "excited to become a public servant for my hometown.”

Marysville Volunteer Patrol is back on the streets

Marysville Volunteer Patrol (MVP) is back completing disabled parking enforcement, premise checks, and keeping our parks safe.

Marysville Police have spent the last few months working to ensure that our volunteers can safely return to their duties after a yearlong break due to COVID restrictions.

"We are excited to reach this next step of reopening that allows our MVP to hit the road again," stated Chief Erik Scairpon.

Happy birthday, Marysville!

Marysville recently celebrated its 130th birthday. Marysville was incorporated March 20, 1891. According to HistoryLink.org, "Citizens voted in favor of incorporation on March 12, electing the town's first mayor (Mark Swinnerton) and council members who, following official filing, met to deal with the demands of explosive population growth." The town population was about 200 at the time.
